$40M for consultants is a cash cow: NDP

Lean. Province spent millions over four years for advice on spending and health care

Quoted

"Lean is ... also about better care and a more efficient system."

Premier Brad Wall, on the benefits of the province's Lean program

Premier Brad Wall is defending his government's decision to spend $40 million over four years on consultants who look for ways to reduce spending and streamline health care.

The Opposition NDP says the program, known as Lean, has been a cash cow for those consultants.

"We should be able to learn Lean principles and enact them for much, much less than what this government is spending," NDP Leader Cam Broten said Thursday.

The province could have spent that money on more care aides or fixing senior care, he suggested.

Wall said the program has already paid for itself with savings on the design for a new children's hospital in Saskatoon and a new hospital in Moose Jaw. Before Lean, 42 per cent of mental-health and addictions appointments were cancelled in Regina and that has dropped to zero, he added.

The government also says $35 million has been saved on better management of blood and plasma products.

"But Lean's not just about savings. Lean is about reducing time to care. It is about reducing the wait time between the diagnosis and a consultation and actual treatment. It is about managing workplace absenteeism," Wall said.

"So Lean is not just about efficiencies or saving money.... This is also about better care and a more efficient system."

Lean was originally created in the manufacturing sector, but has since been applied to many other sectors and industries.

Saskatchewan is the first jurisdiction in Canada to apply the Lean program across its entire health system.

Donations sought after massive Moose Jaw fire

Dozens homeless. Twenty apartments were engulfed within minutes

SARAH TAGUIAM
sarah.taguiam@metronews.ca

Donations are being accepted for the nearly two dozen people who are homeless after a fire destroyed a historic building in downtown Moose Jaw.

Moose Jaw's fire department responded on Wednesday at 10:16 p.m. to the blaze at 71 High St. West near 1st Avenue Northwest, but couldn't save the Jubilee block.

Heavy smoke wafted from the two-storey structure as four businesses — a restaurant, a photography shop and two clothing stores — and 20 apartments above them were engulfed in flames within minutes.

"It was beyond repair last night ... so in the interest of public safety, to help extinguish the fire, we demolished the building," city fire Chief Rod Montgomery told Metro on Thursday, while a crew used an excavator at the site.

Salvation Army spokesman Mervyn Halvorsen witnessed the fire tear through the building, but what struck him were residents suddenly realizing their apartments were gone.

"The streets were full of people, and amidst all those people were the residents (who) live there," Halvorsen said.

"Some of them were in tears because they knew they lost everything."

None of the 21 tenants was injured. The Red Cross plans to help them until Monday, to give them time to find shelter.

"We ensured that everyone has a place to stay, whether that's family or friends or in a hotel," said Red Cross outreach co-ordinator Judi Robertson.

According to Robertson, only financial donations are being accepted for the residents through the Red Cross, Salvation Army and social services.

The cause of the fire hasn't been determined.

Fire crews used a ladder truck to douse hot spots on Thursday in the rubble remaining after the blaze in downtown Moose Jaw. The fire swept through four businesses and 20 apartments on Wednesday night. SARAH TAGUIAM/METRO

"What happened was so unfortunate," Montgomery said, declining to estimate the damage.

"Everybody has to pick up the pieces, but the residents and the business owners of Moose Jaw are resilient."

Donations can be made through the Red Cross at 306-692-9776 or the Salvation Army at 306-692-5899.

Regina police officers to begin carrying Tasers

Police Sgt. Derek Lamer, holding a Taser. MARCO VIGLIOTTI/METRO

About 80 Regina police officers will be equipped with Tasers beginning Friday after undergoing a revamped training program, following the Saskatchewan Police Commission's decision to scrap a moratorium on use of the conducted energy weapons (CEWs).

"It's positive for our service.... It affords an extra option for police officers," Chief Troy Hagen told reporters on Thursday of new regulations permitting usage of Tasers by front-line officers.

Hagen said he expects all of Regina's approximately 300 front-line officers to complete the training by June.

The police commission's moratorium on the stun guns was a response to the death of Robert Dziekanski, who was killed in October 2007 when jolted with a CEW five times by RCMP officers at Vancouver International Airport.

Regina police Sgt. Derek Lamer said changes in response to that incident will restrict use of the weapons to situations with an "immediate need for control," and that "actions have to demonstrate ... a higher level of threat."

Previously, Lamer said, officers could use the weapons on suspects who were simply "actively resisting." To carry the weapons, Regina officers have to complete an online course and eight hours of classroom training. Every time an officer uses the weapon, it will be recorded on the Taser's operating system and reported.

FUTURE 40 CATCHUP: RACHEL MIELKE

CBC's Future 40 project is entering its second year — this time partnering with Metro to showcase Saskatchewan's upcoming young leaders on multiple platforms. All this week, Metro will be featuring a profile of a 2013 winner.

KIRIAKO IATRIDIS

JACOB MORGAN
Metro in Saskatoon

Rachel Mielke has leveraged her passions into lucrative opportunities.

The 33-year-old CEO of the Hillberg & Berk jewelry company was recognized last year in CBC's Future 40 contest. She began making jewelry in high school and pursued the hobby as a career after completing her business administration degree at the University of Regina.

"Designing jewelry is a dream job," said Mielke. "It's so much fun accessorizing women and making women feel beautiful."

She described the Hillberg & Berk esthetic as timeless with "an element of sparkle and boldness."

While Mielke still takes a hands-on approach to the creative vision, managing the business is more than a full-time job. Hillberg & Berk sees millions in annual sales and has served celebrity clients including Celine Dion and Michelle Obama.

And from the time Mielke was featured in Future 40, she has enjoyed one of her most incredible experiences yet. In the fall, the lieutenant-governor of Saskatchewan commissioned a brooch for Queen Elizabeth.

"It's been a really tremendous year for our company," said Mielke.

The floral piece is set in 18-karat white gold and encrusted in diamonds. Mielke said it was an honour to represent her home city of Regina and the province.

"There is so much talent in Saskatchewan," she said.

In addition to creating stunning products, Hillberg & Berk has a social conscience. The company makes seasonal donations and plans to launch its own foundation in the fall, said Mielke, which will include an award for women at the U of R studying business.

Western links. Premiers aim to make moving between provinces easier

The premiers of Saskatchewan, Alberta and British Columbia have agreed to make it easier for people moving between the provinces to license their cars or continue apprenticeships.

Starting in April 2015, drivers won't need to get their cars inspected if their vehicles are less than four years old.

Nor will they need an inspection if one has been done at a designated facility within the last 90 days.

Currently, all vehicles must be inspected once they arrive in the new province, but that can be cumbersome and costly for workers and families.

The premiers have also agreed that apprentices in the skilled trades will be able to move without having to start their training all over again.

They say that will be better for employers that operate in more than one province and will allow western provinces to more easily share training resources.

B.C. Premier Christy Clark, Alberta Premier Alison Redford and Saskatchewan's Brad Wall were supposed to gather in Regina on Thursday for a meeting of what they call the "New West Partnership." It ended up being a conference call instead.

Tim Bozon. Doctors trying to wake WHL player with meningitis from coma

A junior hockey player hospitalized in Saskatoon with meningitis remains in critical condition, but is stable and improving.

A statement by the Saskatoon Health Region says doctors are slowly trying to wake Tim Bozon from a medically induced coma.

His family has indicated he is responding to verbal stimuli.

Bozon plays for the Kootenay Ice of the Western Hockey League and is a prospect with the NHL Montreal Canadiens.

The 19-year-old was admitted March 1 to Saskatoon's Royal University Hospital where he was diagnosed.

His parents, Philippe and Helene, say they have been overwhelmed by email and social-media messages of support from people around the world.

"The family is very appreciative and will respond sometime in the near future," said the statement released Thursday. "The family also wants to express thanks to the doctors and staff at Royal University Hospital for the care Tim has received."

The Western Hockey League has established a trust fund to assist the Bozon family with medical and rehabilitation costs not covered by insurance. Details are to be released later this week. THE CANADIAN PRESS

Backbencher quits, calls Redford a bully

Disrespectful? Former cabinet minister under Stelmach says it's 'the way she treats people'

A backbencher has announced he is leaving Alberta Premier Alison Redford's caucus because he can no longer work with her.

Len Webber told reporters in Calgary on Thursday that Redford is a disrespectful bully who throws temper tantrums and flies into fits of rage.

"I can no longer sit as a government member. I cannot return to work and sit on the same side as long as Alison Redford is sitting at the helm."

Alleged temper tantrums

"She's just really not a nice lady."

Len Webber, Alberta MLA, about Alberta Premier Alison Redford.

He said he plans to sit as an independent. He had already announced his intention to seek the Conservative nomination in the new federal riding of Calgary Confederation.

Redford offered "no reaction" to Webber's comments as she left the building where the Tory caucus was meeting Thursday.

Her deputy premier, Dave Hancock, emerged a short time later to say the caucus stands behind its leader. THE CANADIAN PRESS

PQ candidate out after offensive Facebook post

A Parti Québécois candidate pulled out of the provincial election campaign Thursday after posting a graphically worded anti-Islamic message on his Facebook page.

Jean Carriere stepped aside after the photo started to make the rounds on social media Wednesday.

Harlem disaster. Mayor hopes to 'find others still alive' as rescue workers search overnight through smouldering wreckage

Rescuers working amid cold, gusty winds and billowing smoke pulled four additional bodies overnight from the rubble of two Manhattan apartment buildings, as the death toll rose Thursday to at least seven from a gas leak-triggered explosion that reduced the area to a pile of smashed bricks, splinters and mangled metal.

The explosion Wednesday morning in East Harlem injured more than 60 people, with searchers still trying to locate others a day later. Mayor Bill de Blasio said Thursday that the city was "hoping to find others still alive" and then "to determine exactly what happened here."

Crews used generator-powered floodlights and thermal imaging cameras to identify heat spots — bodies or pockets of fire — at the site. Police guarding the scene wore masks and neighbourhood residents covered faces with scarfs amid the thick, acrid air.

Construction equipment with iron jaws picked up the smouldering debris, first depositing it on the pavement, then hoisting it onto trucks that hauled it away. The debris included structural beams, pieces of windows and residents' belongings. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Malaysia Airlines. Search widens for missing plane

Malaysian authorities expanded their search for a missing plane westward toward India on Thursday, saying it may have flown for several hours after its last contact with the ground.

That scenario would make finding the Boeing 777 a vastly more difficult task, and raises the possibility that searchers have been looking in the wrong place for the plane and its 239 passengers and crew since it disappeared early Saturday.

Search planes were sent Thursday to search an area off the southern tip of Vietnam where Chinese satellite images showed three suspected floating objects, but they saw only ocean.

"There is nothing. We went there, there is nothing," said acting Malaysian Transport Minister Hishammuddin Hussein. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

China. Police arrest man who runs rights website

Police in China on Thursday took away a veteran activist who runs a rights monitoring website, and seized his computers and mobile phones, the campaigner's mother said.

Eleven police officers turned up at Huang Qi's home in the city of Chengdu and produced a summons for Huang before taking him away, said his mother, Pu Wenqing.

Huang founded a rights monitoring website and has long been one of China's most outspoken advocates for the rights of people who try to bring their grievances to the attention of the government but often face police harassment. He served a five-year prison sentence starting in 2003 on subversion charges linked to politically sensitive articles posted on his site. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Crimean referendum prompts West to increase threats against Russia

Crisis in Ukraine.
Gov't and Western allies warn Russia against trying to annex strategic peninsula

Russia conducted new military manoeuvres near its border with Ukraine on Thursday, and President Vladimir Putin said the world shouldn't blame his country for what he called Ukraine's "internal crisis."

In Crimea, where the public will vote on Sunday whether to break away from Ukraine and become part of Russia, jittery residents lined up at their banks to withdraw cash from their accounts amid uncertainty over the future of the peninsula, which Russian troops now control.

U.S. Secretary of State John Kerry and Russian Foreign Minister Sergey Lavrov plan to meet in London on Friday in a last-ditch bid to end the standoff over the Crimean referendum, which Ukraine and the West have rejected as illegitimate.

In Berlin, German Chancellor Angela Merkel sharply criticized Russia, saying the territorial integrity of Ukraine cannot be compromised.

Speaking to Germany's parliament, Merkel said Russia risks "massive" political and economic consequences, if it does not enter into "negotiations that achieve results" over the situation in Ukraine.

If Moscow does not begin to "de-escalate" the situation, Merkel said, the 28 European Union nations, the U.S. and other allies are prepared to take even stronger measures such as freezing bank accounts of Russians and implementing travel restrictions that would hit Russia economically.

On Wednesday, Moscow rejected the Ukrainian government's claim that a massive Russian military buildup near the countries' border was raising the threat of a possible invasion.

But on Thursday Russia's Defence Ministry announced that thousands of Russian troops in their regions of Rostov, Belgorod, Kursk and Tambov bordering Ukraine are involved in the exercises, which will continue until the end of the month.

Putin, who has received his parliament's permission to use the Russian military in Ukraine, has warned that he reserves the right to "use all means" to protect Russian speakers in Ukraine from violent nationalists, even though there have been no signs they are facing such a threat.

Marijuana job fair stokes high level of interest in Denver

Homegrown demand. Line of job applicants snaked around corner as legal pot business lights up big profits

Job seekers attend a marijuana-industry job fair hosted by O.pen Vape, a vaporizer company, in Denver on Thursday. BRENNAN LINSLEY/THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

When Tim Cullen was opening his first marijuana business four years ago, the high school biology teacher-turned-pot entrepreneur struggled to get resumés and references from job applicants.

"Everyone's experience was on the black market," Cullen said. Now, he said, "it's come out of the closet."

Out of the closet, down the street and around the corner. That's where the line of hopefuls stretched Thursday outside a central Denver office building that was hosting a marijuana industry job fair.

Cullen, who owns two retail marijuana shops and is a partner in a company that makes hash oil and another that makes vaporizers, was among representatives from about a dozen businesses reviewing applications.

O.penVAPE, Cullen's vaporizers company, organized the fair to meet its own growing staffing needs and help others in the industry, said company spokesman Todd Mitchem.

Voters in Colorado and Washington approved sales of marijuana for recreational use in 2012, and recreational sales began first in Colorado, in January. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

China cutting through the smog

In this December 2013 file photo, the skyline of the Lujiazui Financial District in Shanghai is seen blanketed in heavy smog. Japanese electronics maker Panasonic Corp. is compensating employees for living with air pollution in Chinese cities, such as Beijing and Shanghai, that have become notorious for high pollution. China will tighten environmental legislation and force polluters to pay compensation following renewed blasts of toxic air, the country's top legislator said Sunday. Zhang Dejiang said in a report to the ceremonial legislature's annual session that businesses were responsible for the environmental damage they caused and must be held to account. He said legal revisions were being prepared, but offered no specifics.

THE WORLD ACCORDING TO KEVIN BACON

1 #whileTwitterwasdown. Twitter went down briefly Tuesday, but it felt like an eternity to users. By the time it came back, #whileTwitterwasdown was trending with gems like, "I tried to get real people on the street to follow me, but they just wouldn't. Elites probably," and "I was promoted at work, made six friends, and started a family." All I did was write six books, three of which were adapted to the big screen.

2 First kiss. A beautiful video of 20 strangers meeting and kissing for the first time went viral, with more than 20 million views. When people found out it was actually a fashion film by the label Wren, it didn't really dampen spirits. After all, it really was strangers kissing. And the vid really was beautiful. Plus, we're used to product endorsements on everything.

3 Bachelor finale. The finale had the narcissistic Juan Pablo trending for being such a self-serving idiot. Even his parents warned Clare and Nikki about him. In the end, he sort of picked Nikki. But we all know that the person Juan Pablo loves the most in the world is himself. That's who he should have proposed to: Juan Pablo.

4 Funny or Die. To promote his health-care plan, President Obama sat down for an interview with actor Zach Galifianakis on his comedy web series Between Two Ferns on Funny or Die. Boy did it work. White House senior communications adviser Tara McGuinness tweeted "FunnyorDie.com is the #1 source of referrals to HealthCare.gov right now." Laughter really is the best medicine.

5 Strombo. Hockey Night in Canada named him as their primary host and anchor, taking over from Ron MacLean, who will have a diminished role next year. Lost in the hoopla was the announcement Strombo's terrific show George Stroumboulopoulos Tonight will be cancelled at season's end. I will miss it big time.

6 #AskBaird. Canada's Foreign Minister John Baird hosted a live Twitter chat where you could ask him questions. This was refreshing for a politician to be this transparent in real time about what Canada is doing on the international stage. Baird was self-deprecating, saying in one tweet, "suggest trying someone else for cooking & fashion tips."

7 Kevin Bacon. A YouTube video titled Kevin Explains the '80s to Millennials garnered nearly two million views as a straight-faced Bacon tried to explain what the '80s and its VCRs and parachute pants meant. "You want to know my favourite app? Rubik's Cube," Bacon says. Google that, millennials, to find out what it is.

8 Jack Bauer. It was announced the iconic character will be coming back to TV four years after the series finale. This time Jack is an exiled ex-CIA agent who has to prevent the assassination of the U.S. president — and prevent a world war. Yes, life is never easy for Jack Bauer. But it is for Kiefer Sutherland.

9 Daylight saving time. The first week adjusting to daylight saving is always a nag, but all the more so when the most famous mayor in the world — yes, Mayor Ford — tweets out "Daylight saving time starts this evening, turn your clocks back and change batteries in smoke alarms." For the rest of this year, Ford will be two hours behind the rest of the world.

10 22-pound house cat attacks. It read like an Onion article — a 911 call was placed by a family whose 22-pound Himalayan cat, Lux, who had a "history of violence," was holding them "hostage" inside their bedroom after attacking their baby. Don't worry: The police caught the grumpy cat after it attempted "to flee custody" by climbing on top of the fridge.

11 www. Remember when the telephone turned 25? The radio? The TV? I don't either. But I will remember when the World Wide Web did — March 12, 2014. Seriously though, can you believe it's already been around a quarter-century? Before we know it, Twitter will seem ancient when we're beaming around space tweeting our adventures.

Man-of-war can kill fish and humans

It looks like a bejewelled silk scarf but you'd be a fool to wear it. This image shows the Portuguese man-of-war, a sea creature whose stinging tentacles are capable of killing fish and even humans. Eric Röttinger's shot is winner of the non-scientific category of the annual cover contest by molecular biology journal EMBO. METRO metres is how long the venomous tendrils of a Portuguese man-of-war can extend to — that's roughly four lengths of an average-sized city bus.

Too many tendrils

Ten metres is the average length for this seafaring creature's appendages. The tendrils' venom-filled capsules, or nematocysts, are capable of paralyzing and killing fish, and on rare occasions humans. Some people have described a sting from the man-of-war as a feeling like being struck by a lightning bolt.

Blob tag

- Biology. Despite its appearance, the Portuguese man-of-war (Physalia physalis) is neither a jellyfish nor even a single animal. It's actually a siphonophore, a floating colony of multiple organisms working in symbiosis with each other.
- Structure. It comprises four individual polyps (or organisms): one forming a gas-filled bladder that floats on the sea surface and looks like an old warship (by which the creature gets its nautical name), one that catches small fish with its long tendrils, and two others that are in charge of digestion and reproduction.
- Habitat. Found in groups of 1,000, floating in warm waters throughout the world's oceans.

Synopsis

Based on the most successful racing video game franchise ever, Need for Speed is Aaron "Breaking Bad" Paul's first lead in a feature. He plays Tobey Marshall, a speed-demon mechanic, jailed for a crime he did not commit. Out of prison with revenge against adversary Dino Brewster (Dominic Cooper) on his mind, he finagles a spot at the De Leon, a high-octane underground race that makes the Cannonball Run look like a Go-Kart sprint. You just know it's only a matter of time until someone says, "We'll settle this behind the wheel." Between him and the race, however, are miles of hard road, bounty hunters and police. Steve Gow sits in for Mark Breslin this week.

Need for Speed. Action-packed racing tale based on a video game not one for the intellectual crowd

Reel Guys

RICHARD CROUSE AND MARK BRESLIN

Richard: Steve, remember the Mazda commercials that were on a few years ago? I felt like the kid from those ads was sitting on my shoulder whispering "zoom, zoom" into my ear for the entire running time of The Hot Wheels Movie, er…. Need for Speed. This is a fast paced car race movie that zips along as quickly as you'd hope a movie with the word speed in the title would, but character wise, it's not quite as fast or furious as you might like. The cars are the stars, while the characters are largely left in the dust. What did you think?

SG: Yes, the way they're upstaged by the racing sequences, the term "vehicular manslaughter" could easily apply to the actors. Sure, Aaron Paul showed us he had chops in Breaking Bad but that only makes the choice of playing a gravelly-voiced, vengeance-seeking street car racer all the more curious. After all, as much as Need For Speed tries to design depth in its characters, nobody in the thriller rises above conveniently routine. Or all that interesting.

RC: I liked the race scenes. They feel authentic and by and large done by brave speed demon stunt drivers without the use of CGI. They're exciting, pedal-to-the-metal sequences that put the audience in the driver's seat. You have to wonder about glorifying the romance of reckless street racing, but the movie isn't a commercial for vehicular mayhem. There are some wild rides, but there are also consequences for many of the drivers and their need for speed. I just wish the characters were stronger. It says something when the movie's most interesting character — the eccentric millionaire the Monarch, played by Michael Keaton — never gets behind the wheel of a car.

SG: He was definitely working the same oddball over-the-top angles as Nicolas Cage. Imogen Poots (That Awkward Moment) was appealing enough as a British assistant of the car's owner who hitchhikes along with Paul for the nationwide ride. However, I couldn't help thinking how contrived the entire plot was. Then again, I suppose that shouldn't be surprising considering the story was culled from a video game — albeit a very successful video game.

RC: Need for Speed isn't Downton Abbey. It's a car crazy story where characters take a backseat to the action, but if you know what a Two Lane Grasshopper is, then you'll probably get a kick out of the driving scenes.

SG: This movie definitely isn't for graduates of Juilliard's drama program. It's for high-octane gearheads who want to stuff their faces with over-buttered popcorn and watch innocent bystanders and cops get taken out in the careless (cut cunningly choreographed) act of illegal street racing. It does a fine job there but I'm not sure I'll remember much else about Need for Speed by tomorrow morning.

Nothing too Divergent

Plenty of parallels. Young actor Theo James talks about the story's mass appeal with young people

scene@metronews.ca

Theo James stars in Divergent, which opens next Friday. CONTRIBUTED

The new young adult movie Divergent declares, "The future belongs to those who know where they belong."

In the film, a Big Brother style government has divided the post-apocalyptic Chicago into five factions: the altruistic Abnegation sect, the peace loving Amity, the "I cannot tell a lie" Candor group, the militaristic arm Dauntless and the smarty-pants Erudite.

In the middle of this muddle is Four, played by Theo James, a Dauntless warrior with a sensitive side. He's a mentor of sorts and love interest to Tris (Shailene Woodley), a 16-year-old who has recently pledged to Dauntless. During her grueling training, Four helps her disguise the fact that she is "divergent," a person who cannot be pigeonholed into just one designation.

James, the English-born star, beat out half of young Hollywood for the role, which was made popular in the wildly successful Divergent series of books. Sales of more than five million copies puts the novels into Hunger Games territory, but why are they so popular with teens? "I think there are two things to summarize it," says James, a philosophy graduate from the University of Nottingham. "One, on a generalist level, it's a good story to be able to be involved in in the same way as some others in the genre are. The faction system is a good thing for young people to grab hold of because they can question themselves. They can say, 'Which one would I be in?' There are cliques in high school, and it has those kinds of ramifications.

OUR TAKE ON THE WORLD OF CELEBRITIES

Kirsten Dunst ALL PHOTOS GETTY IMAGES

Someone's not happy to see Dunst and Hedlund's relationship in full Bloom

Things are getting serious between Kirsten Dunst and longtime boyfriend Garrett Hedlund — and that's apparently a problem for Orlando Bloom, who briefly dated his Elizabethtown co-star. "Kirsten wants to marry Garrett, and she was shocked when Orlando reached out to her and ripped Garrett apart for his hard-partying, bad boy ways," a source tells Radar Online. "Orlando was basically acting like a jealous boyfriend even though he hasn't been involved with Kirsten for years, and Kirsten called him out on it." Dunst and Hedlund met while filming On the Road and have been dating steadily since 2012. "Kirsten's pals believe she's found a real soul mate in Garrett, and her work and outlook on life have improved dramatically since they've been together," the source says. "They wonder why Orlando is trying to spoil her good time." Those pals do at least have some theories, though: "Orlando is in a bad place in his career and has seen roles that he wanted slip away to hunky younger actors like Garrett," the source offers. "Orlando's meddling, catty behaviour with Kirsten and Garrett is likely to continue until he has another lucky streak in his career. But Kirsten isn't letting anyone get between her and Garrett, least of all Orlando. She hopes to walk down the aisle with him."

Russell Brand

Buying house in India may herald Brand new Russell

Russell Brand is apparently ready to double down on his love for all things India, as he's reportedly looking to buy property there and spend half the year living in the South Asian nation, according to Radar Online. "Russell consulted his Indian guru earlier this year about the idea and is now making noise about buying an estate or plantation in India," a source says. "He wants to be closer to his various spiritual, dietary and health guides in the country and is telling pals that he would like to spend as much as six months out of the year in India." Apparently the memory of marrying Katy Perry in a lavish ceremony at India's Rambagh Palace isn't dampening his enthusiasm for the country, even though the marriage ended 14 months later. "He will probably rent before he plunks down the millions he would need to buy a place," the source adds. "But he's serious about this move, arguably more so than his movie career."

The Word

Woodley got the OK from Lawrence for Divergent role

MELINDA TAUB
Metro World News

In any career, it's best to find yourself a mentor when you're just starting out — someone who's been where you are and can advise you.

However, if that career is "starring in a blockbuster trilogy based on bestselling books about a brave young girl thrust into a world of dystopian violence," your mentorship options are limited. To, oh, one other person.

Divergent star Shailene Woodley didn't let that stop her — she reached out to her young-adult-adaptation forebear, Jennifer Lawrence, before agreeing to star in Divergent. "I asked Jennifer Lawrence, 'Are you happy with your choice to take on The Hunger Games?'" Woodley revealed to Teen Vogue. "And she said she wouldn't change it for the world. She told me, 'There are some things — don't make a sex tape, don't do drugs, don't do things in public — that you wouldn't want other people judging you for. But this is the best decision you'll ever make.'"

That kind of sounds like Shailene Woodley also asked Jennifer Lawrence for advice on whether to make a sex tape. I'm glad Jennifer said "Nope." It sounds like Shailene has been very discreet, though: She says she's never hooked up on set. After the shoot wrapped, though? That's different. "Well, that might have happened on something...." she said.

Naya Rivera

Is this the final curtain for Glee's Naya Rivera?

Musical TV series Glee has one more season to go, starting next fall, before its final curtain call, but is Naya Rivera not planning to make it that far? Rivera, a member of the original cast who is now part of the show's New York-set storyline, posted a Tweet about working with former cast-member Heather Morris that included a rather cryptic hashtag. "On set with Glee shooting a very sweet Brit/Santana scene! #starttogetherendtogether," she wrote. And while discussing the plans for moving the series completely to New York for the final season, co-star Lea Michele left Rivera's name out while talking to E! News, saying, "It's New York now. So it's me and Chris Colfer and Darren Criss and Chord Overstreet and Kevin McHale." Sources at the show have not yet confirmed who will and who will not be a part of the final season.

Robin plays good father as cancelled shows mount up

Robin Thicke took some time out from his tour over the weekend and flew to Vancouver to spend time with estranged wife Paula Patton and their son, Julian, according to E! News. The recently separated pair seemed in good spirits, laughing together as Julian played at a playground. But maybe the trip didn't go as well as Thicke hoped it would, as he went on to cancel yet another show — this one at Ontario's Casino Rama — due to "unforeseen vocal issues," something that's plagued his tour since his split from Patton was announced. But he seemed fine Monday night in Los Angeles, celebrating his 37th birthday alongside Leonardo DiCaprio and a number of male pals.

Even though St. Patrick's Day isn't until Monday, I'm betting many of you will get the party started tonight and sashay your shillelagh into next week.

Since a quarter of Peter Rockwell comes from the Emerald Isle, I like a pint of green beer as much as the next semi-Irish guy. What the day really brings home to me is the volume of classic booze brands that call Ireland home.

Think Jameson whiskey, Baileys Irish Cream liqueur and, for the beer fans, Murphy's, Harp, and, of course, Guinness. All from a country that's just slightly larger than the province of New Brunswick. While you could choose any one of those (or a combo of a few) to toast St. Paddy, the real mover and shaker in Ireland is cider. No longer a simple summer sipper; the cider category has become a force to be reckoned with.

Magners Original Irish Cider (500 ml, $3.15 - $4.40) balances its apple goodness with a crisp, effervescence that's perfect with a celebratory serving of lamb stew, shepherd's pie or corn beef and cabbage. PRICES REFLECT RANGE ACROSS THE COUNTRY. Reports: Hockey player died of asphyxiation

Media reports say a Canadian junior hockey player whose body was found in Michigan this week died from asphyxiation, which police believe to have been self-inflicted.

The reports say autopsy results for Terry Trafford, 20, were released Thursday — two days after the missing athlete was found in an SUV in the parking lot of a Walmart store in Saginaw Township. Trafford, who played for the Saginaw Spirit, had last been seen about 9:30 a.m. on March 3.

Jacobs still has golden touch

Olympic gold medallist Brad Jacobs opened the Syncrude National Grand Slam of Curling event with an 8-6 win over Brock Virtue on Thursday.

CFL. Roughriders sign their head coach to a contract extension

MARCO VIGLIOTTI
marco.vigliotti@metronews.ca

The Saskatchewan Roughriders have inked head coach Corey Chamblin to a contract extension through to the 2017 season, the football team announced Thursday.

In only his second season as head coach, Chamblin led the Green and White to their fourth Grey Cup championship in 2013, clinching the title on home turf in Regina.

"I'm truly excited to be here for awhile," Chamblin, the reigning Canadian Football League's coach of the year, said Thursday. "It gives us an opportunity to keep doing some of the things we're doing."

The Riders will need to rebuild if they hope to make another Grey Cup drive in 2014 after losing two of their offensive leaders in tailback Kory Sheets and receiver Weston Dressler to NFL clubs in the off-season.

The famed franchise was also stripped of starters by the Ottawa Redblacks in the CFL expansion draft last December and through free agency, which started in February.

The high expectations that come with helming a talented squad in football-mad Saskatchewan do not appear to faze the perpetually cool Chamblin.

"Corey brings a lot things to the table," said general manager Brendan Taman. "He's knowledgeable, he's very confident — he can deal with people."

Chamblin received his fair share of heat in his first year as a coach in 2012 after the Riders were eliminated in the first round of the playoffs following a lengthy regular-season slide.

After a similarly shocking slump rattled the team in the latter part of last season, Chamblin kept his composure throughout, maintaining that his talented squad would start to see results if they continued their strong play.

His words would appear to be prophetic, when the Green and White tore through their opponents en route to a Grey Cup championship.

Horoscopes

♈ Aries
March 21 - April 20
Because Mars, your ruler, is on good form today, something will happen that has you jumping for joy. Make plans for your professional future but leave yourself some wiggle room in case you want to change your mind.

♉ Taurus
April 21 - May 21
Use your imagination today. This is a great time for trying new things, especially on the work front where, if you show you are able to adapt quickly to changing circumstances, you could be promoted.

♊ Gemini
May 22 - June 21
Your mind may be full of ideas but for best results you need to focus on the things that will be of most benefit to you. No matter how many ideas you have your energy is limited.

♋ Cancer
June 22 - July 23
Let the world know what you are thinking. Some important people will be listening to what you have to say today and if they like what they hear it won't be long before the offers start coming in.

♌ Leo
July 24 - Aug. 23
Are you promising more than you can deliver? Maybe, but your confidence is so high at the moment that the thought of failure does not cross your mind, which in turn makes success more likely.

♍ Virgo
Aug. 24 - Sept. 23
You will be tempted to take a risk today and because your ruler Mercury is nicely linked to Mars, planet of action and energy, you may well pull it off.

♎ Libra
Sept. 24 - Oct. 23
If you feel the need to brag about your success, go ahead. It's not often you make noise about how well you've done, so once in a while it's OK.

♏ Scorpio
Oct. 24 - Nov. 22
This is a good day to take care of the little things that need doing at home and at work. Don't set yourself any grand targets, just get the small stuff done and leave the grand design to sort itself out.

♐ Sagittarius
Nov. 23 - Dec. 21
You have so many options available to you now that it may be hard to know where to start. For best results you should spend as much time as possible in social situations.

♑ Capricorn
Dec. 22 - Jan. 20
If someone tries to pressure you into doing something you don't approve of today, you must turn them down flat. Yes, you may owe them for favours but conscience comes first.

♒ Aquarius
Jan. 21 - Feb. 19
With Mercury in your sign linked to Mars your mind will move fast, so fast in fact that it may take a while for the rest of you to catch up! Be careful you don't exhaust yourself — something that can happen to your mind and your body.

♓ Pisces
Feb. 20 - March 20
There are signs that something you have dreamed of for months is getting closer and very soon will be your reality. Remember: the more you believe that you deserve success the quicker success is likely to arrive. SALLY BROMPTON
